

---

Subject: Re: A psychological question: "choose to believe"

Posted by Spoony on Fri, 25 Feb 2011 16:06:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

shippo wrote on Fri, 25 February 2011 05:54um... of corse you can chose to believe in something.

example: There is a salesman telling me all the great things about this car. I can chose whether to believe this salesman or not.

Well, then, I finally find someone who answers yes to the question. Your mind seems to work very differently from the overwhelming majority.

Given that the rest of us can't, does this make you reconsider the fact we'll be punished for not being the right religion? If you don't object to the fact that this negates the whole concept of freedom of religion, and if you don't object to the fact it's torture, do you at least object to the fact that we're being threatened unless we do something we can't do?

---