Well, two things. First, factual proof can't be in the form of an opinion. Secondly, no, there is no proof to support evolution. That's why it's called the "Theory of Evolution."

However, various scientific evidence does infer that the theory of evolution is highly plausible. It's just not factually proven so.

Also, funny comic strip.

I2science please

The word 'theory' does not at all imply what you think it does.
