We were looking to make some sort of space-based game, but absolutely nobody in the poll yet has played Eve online, nor do they care for space games... unsurprisingly the most popular games are FPS

I would like a space game but so far have not found something I like (I admit I have not looked well). For a good space game, it should be RPG style with a massive universe, good map system with zones, NPCs, many stations (for example, bandit stations with the bad guys), and so on.

Have you heard of Infinity? It's a WIP...have been following them for a while now though it is taking a lot of time. Great demo here:

This is what I would play. Full free-form space flight with custom craft, and most importantly seamless space flight (ability to go from space-to-planet without load times).
