More info. This guy decided to cut the education budget by about $703 million. Whats funny about this, is that the idiot said that he would not cut the education budget. But when he was voted in, he changed his mind and cut it. The county I live in is not only having to cut the already tight budget, but having to cut corners to do so, including leaving students in cold/hot classrooms throughout the day. My county was actually complained at for doing something similar a year ago.
