I think English is a beautiful language that has many different ways of expressing your thoughts, ideas, and emotions. However, people like dogtree refuse to utilize the resources available for improving the way they speak the language, instead; they hide behind the excuse "in MY language" as a shield for any mistakes they make.

You are not writing your language on this forum. This is an English community. If writing English is too difficult for you, perhaps I can direct you to this website so you will have a much easier time writing and speaking the language.

/Water, fire, air and dirt. Fucking English, how does it work?
