
Subject: Re: My internet has been acting up lately
Posted by danpaul88 on Mon, 04 Jul 2011 12:22:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wireless routers provided by ISPs tend to be cheap crap, your better off buying a good quality one of your own.

Some possible solutions for a dodgy wireless signal (short of buying a better quality wireless router) are;

- 1) Switch to a wired connection - just because the router has wireless doesn't mean you have to use it
 - 2) Adjust position of computer and router so they are closer together, ensure aerials on both are clear of obstructions and there is an absolute minimum of walls or metal objects between the two of them
 - 3) Switch off microwaves and any other devices using the 2.4GHz spectrum, if possible set the router to G mode only (or N if the router and your PC support it).
-