I don't know much about the original RA universe and its structures but if you were to sacrifice interior accuracy bypassing the lore, would it be possible to make the Refinery into a "dummy" structure (like the barn on Field)?

With no doors so it can be walked into and perhaps a ladder/stairs to go to the two upper levels that have the large windows.

I am only half-heartedly saying it though as I like your last idea of translucent windows with interior silhouette.

edit: reworded
