Chew wrote on Thu, 01 September 2011 16:45 When he said, "Fail" did you not understand what he meant... So there was no need to whip out your Webster's dicktionanus are give a lesson on how to be a fucking arrogant know-it-all bag of shit out of some cheap whore's ass after a hundred homeless guys ejaculated in it.

You are such a complete fucking dumbass; I feel like I'm wasting my time telling you how wrong you are. However, I shall digress:

I know exactly what he meant by "fail". That doesn't mean he's correct. If you used your pea-brain to think for once, you would understand where I'm coming from. I also never brought out a dictionary, so I'm not sure where your sperg ass is coming up with that. Furthermore, I didn't realize that understanding the basics of English (such as "How simple, four letter words work!") was a requirement of being a know-it-all. It looks like your standards are really low if you think that I'm a know-it-all for understanding a level of English that you apparently failed in second grade. Congratulations, you waste of space. Get the fuck off the Internet.

If you think that's me "feeling better than others" you have a very warped and dumb ass view of the world. This is me feeling better than you. Why? Because I'm not an ignorant piece of shit.

I rebuttal with, "Nice life, faggot."

I'm married with a four year old and a college degree. I don't know anything about your life but if your posts are any indication of your capacity for income generation, I will assume that your life will be spent working at Wal*Mart until you're 70.

Quote:I am actually not mad. It is just sad how all it is now is ACK running around trying to put people in giant ovens for not using proper grammar...

You are mad. It's patently obvious to anyone with a brain that functions above the level of a third grade student. Actually, scratch that - I was able to figure out how mad someone was when I was six. That's kindergarten, bro. Regarding "ovens", keep using the Nazi analogy for English corrections. You look as stupid as your posts lead me to believe. In other words, regarding Nazis:
