true enough, it could be pretty damn annoying, but it depends on how it's done.

I'd personally love to see infantry go flying when taking a direct hit from an artillery shell, though, still.

Also, what's with your obsession with autism? were you beat up by an autistic kid or something?

autism is a(n) (un)funny thing and we all suffer from a mild form of it by engaging in this discussion. i like to occasionally claim to be autistic myself in a self-depreciating context irl, but i think throwing out over the top insults is the funnier online posting gimmick.

refusing to use capitalization goes well with the superhip idgaf style too imo
