this game is pretty terrible, it's like world of warcraft combined with counter-strike, though you're randomly not doing any damage even though the game tells you you've hit stuff. Artillery and tank destroyers insta-kill most tanks, and you need to spend months playing the game before you can buy decent tanks.

There's one game mode, you can't select maps, there's no respawning, you can't join the match that already started and there are no dedicated servers. It takes about 2 minutes for a new game to start (there's loading, waiting for the other players to load ingame and a 30 second wait time). the matchmaking is terrible, you'll be playing games against high tier tanks most of the time. After you've targetted something you need to stay still for around 30 seconds while aiming or the recoil will be too high for the shot to hit, although shots will still randomly hit if that's the case.

and of course sadukar09 is ranked first in the world so the game is a joke skill-wise.
