i know a vid would be more representative, but i thought that would be no need of it, i noted the diference wile playing for hours, and also making a test in controled essene in singleplayer were the TT allways offer lower fps than previus scripts, anyway i thought in came here and report it though it is not a big issue for the moment and i am sure the next update will came whit further improvements, so keep the good work and thanks a lot for this patch wich i think it will give ren more years of life.
