If you're the type of guy who likes to wear BDU and other tactical clothing, then some of the jackets and pants actually have built in pads for your elbows and knees.

I just thought if you may have any ideas on any airsoft specific/military pads. I currently use a pair of black pads which I use for mountain biking which is really more of a stop gap and doesn't give the authentic look.

I checked out the BDU's with built-in pads and they are great but they give a loose fit; I like my pants to be snug and not baggy around my legs so it's easier to move about. Works for some though...ty!
