Having two "none" responses is redundant if the question is asking which one you trust more.

As for which one to trust? None of them and all of them. I don't really use any but how exactly are you asking we "trust" them? By not giving away personal information? Because that's pretty much what people do on those sites of their own free will.. so :\