I have never checked if it is allowed. I will rather let someone else who would like to answer this question. Do you think I am in a mental institution? Do you think that I feel insulted if that is your intent? Would not I rather care for more important things like the families, friends and those in need? Of what? Will you use your intuition on the question previous the other question? Do you think that I take this topic seriously and if yes, how? Do you think that I am judging you? Thanks for the lessons that you may bring especially if I haven't learned them.
