If its every time something is created that suggests that its either happening during texture load or mesh load, if you have shaders enabled try disabling them and see if that helps, otherwise try defragging Ren as it should still be hard drive related if it isn't some weird thing shaders are doing.

Also try with compatibility mode off, I've never had to run Ren as admin or xp mode (however I've always had UAC disabled on all 11 7/Vista computers I've installed it on).
