TT put my keys.cfg file in My Documents\Renegade\Client (I have Windows XP), and it has key bindings assigned. I don't remember if I had to paste an old version I had when I was running 3.4.4 in there, but the keys are currently defined in there (including some that were unique to the Black-Cell servers), and working (assuming the server will respond to some of the shortcuts). TT apparently sent keycfg.exe into the C:\Westwood\Renegade\backup and C:\Westwood\Renegade\backup\tools folders, but since it's a version of keycfg.exe that was bundled with an old version of scripts.dll, I would just manually edit the keys.cfg to be safe.
