You can't be trusted with ellipses like that!

OK, seriously, what the fuck?

My domain name log-in for where I work is 'ellipse' (something they do for everyone is form your user name as part of your forename and surname, mine being Elliott, Spencer).

This is cashed and present when you launch my work's portal (which is my homepage on my home PC).

I am more than happy to show this to any of the TT team.

It could be my paranoia, but why would you use the word 'ellipse'? That's too weird for me! What was you referring to?
