

---

Subject: Re: Obama

Posted by Jerad2142 on Wed, 14 Nov 2012 23:22:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Aircraftkiller wrote on Wed, 14 November 2012 13:05Mentioning the ER automatically makes you an idiot. If you're curious as to the reason why, it's because you're an idiot.

Quote:Never mind that '60 Minutes' interviewer Scott Pelly was quick to accurately point out that ER care is the most expensive form of treatment that one can access. What is far more interesting is that the remark so clearly puts Governor Romney at odds with the other candidate seeking the presidency—and I don't mean Barack Obama.

Unless that article says that the ER is now much cheaper than going into see your household doctor I'm not going to read it. I said ER because that's where half the dumbasses out there go over something like a cough. The whole point of my statement was to point out how people abuse insurance as it is already. Sorry you didn't see that.

My companies health insurance used to pay 100% for everything, they stopped doing that however because it was costing them too much as the employees were going to the doctors over every little thing (They used going to the ER for every little thing as an example). In the end the employees pay 100% up to a $2500, the general idea being it will make people make choices that will help them save money.

---