Jesse wrote on Mon, 26 November 2012 11:11i like how if germany wins one thing ever they pop a megaboner .. if america posted everything we win we'd have to create a separate subforum lol... yeah, there's an american that's good at something occasionally, offcourse there has to be seeing america is fucking huge, and cant be compared to 'tiny' germany, sure enough if you would put it in percentage, america would probably be in top 5 most productive countries in the world (if you start at the bottom of the chart, that is) the only thing that americans are truely great in is eating hamburgers, making shitty cars and policing the world(offcourse they can do that when u spend more on military than more than half of the world combined, literally)

ps: this is the 3rd time in a row Vettel won the world championship, i can only find 2 americans who ever got world champ title in F1 and its like 40 years ago that they did
