The topic was about the video Bazil made for MPF. It looks nice he did a good job on it. I sit here wondering why people can't look at what another person did and either give him a complement on all his hard work and for it turning out so nice. Or for giving him some pointers how how to make it better. Instead people always just start going off on stuff that has nothing to do with why the topic was started for.

And tbh MDK has been a great mod here at MPF the other servers out there would be proud to have staff treat their community like he does. The past is the past just let it go already!
