Thanks, I try.

Quote:Oh please, don't even try to say "5k~ registered users", when at the time there were probably around 20 people who even played the server -- spam bots that you don't know how to protect against and randoms who join for 2 minutes then never come back because it's so poorly setup can't really be considered "users".

20 or so people who've played for 2 minutes longer than on your server.

Quote:Crap plugins? They did exactly what they were supposed to do. You can't say the actual programming of it was bad, given that you didn't even see it.
Badly configured plugins? That's a joke, given that I fixed the "badly configured plugins" that weren't even added by me. I can't help if that IRC bot you stole from St0rm causes glitches -- I even recommended that you not use it, since it shows you people's passwords.

Keep talking out of your ass. Your plugins were terrible and everyone knows that, reborn had to help and we all laughed at your sloppy coding. The IRC bot from St0rm isn't stolen, Cronus got it (as well as permission to use it) from the actual person who makes it. 3 days after we got the bot we disabled passwords/PMs on the admin channel, which people who have RDP access can see in the Minecraft server logs regardless...
