I now understand, instead of worrying about cancer, being run over, or the many other things that kill people, they should worry about the fluoride in their water. And instead of drinking that water they should go out and buy over expensive bottled water, and do everything from dishes to taking a shower with it, because U DONT WANT TO ACCIDENTLY DRINK DOSE FLUORIDES.

Of course, they will probably go broke from all the money it costs to get questionable quality bottled water and end up living on the street.
