Sad... Good Luck for any future Projects you are up to.

I did try to work things out but in the end shit happens and sometimes you don't get what you want.

Right now i'm working on myself, as I have been for a little while now. Finishing up some back school shit I've had to do and now looking for a new job. Living a more sober lifestyle and getting shit done for myself to have a stable platform to do other things on. Whatever they may be.

I don't have anything planned in terms of a "new community" or anything big in gaming, but I will more than probably not have any true Renegade involvement - unless of course something happens I could capitalize on or just put up a sniper server to play with friends on. Renegade as we all know is sadly a small community-backed game with no where to go but down.

I'll probably try to launch some kind of competitive-gaming community - eventually. I'd like to do things in that regard which I really don't feel like talking about.

I'll still be a forum-goer and play with people who wouldn't mind playing with me and i'm cool with.
