For the center, possibly as a homage to Bespin's cloud city, you could use the room with the famous carbonite scenes, or maybe the room with the long walkway where Luke falls rather than accept Vader's hand.

In fact, I would model the entire thing on cloud city to be honest, some cloud mining machinery and other objects.

Many of those structures have the same sort of shape to the buildings in Mos Eisley. Although I'm assuming yours are going to be metal, rather than the sand stone looking structures found on Tatooine.

Perhaps a Mos Eisley Cantina clone wouldn't be a bad idea on one of those pads, just as a little tribute?
