Yes in this forum if you talk about something like this the bully like attitude will show itself. most forum members know best to not talk of things or they will be bashed.. It doesn't mean they don't have opinions that the ruling negative ACK like people would stomp on you for, it just means that for the best of being a part of the forum community, they don't talk about it. Out of all the forums I've been a member of since ever this one was by far had the most negative bully like people on it.

I'm guessing than that most of you are in denial to the fact that were facing a huge financial crisis and that the US dollar is about to collapse? within the next year two at the most?

perhaps your replies will give me a hint to your thoughts?

And if i could add... obama is not leading us to a bad place, he knows exactly what he's doing for the best of all citizens and that all the countries we're militarily occupying are justified and were not being lead astray?

EDIT: I'm sorry, I feel bad every time I post on the topic, not right away, but after, I don't want to say this stuff, i believe it but don't want to be a preacher of it, I just comes out spur the moment, part of me wants to talk about it.. the thing is i'm very emotional about what's coming, a big part of me doesn't want it to happen but knows i must accept.

It's a bullies nature to perceive someone that feels hurt or emotional over something the 'bully' said or did to him/her that that's a weakness and that makes that person inferior to the 'bully' who said or did it. But might be true that the 'Bully' who feels nothing of others or cares nothing of others feelings or opinions could be closer to a psychopath?
