Hey... Imperial has only used open source models freely available online (and the only ones he didn't create was just a few models by Sgtmay and some reborn models from 2003 version) and he is more than capable of making his own models and unwraps... here is a link to his original topic with progress showing his work...

Crediting the original authors would have been nice at least.

He hasn't stolen a thing.. all his original work and he is the original author lol.. and the APB model and his are very different I can provide more images if you'd like haha

Quote:I'd bet $1000 that's not the only stolen asset that is uncredited to its original author.

typical pitchfork attitude i've come to expect from this forum

P.S all his maps state credits to original authors, if any...

his maps where credit is due and given
