Depends on your router. Usually you log in to your router's control panel and look for a button called 'Port Forwarding'. There you add the ports and forward them to your PC.

If you can't figure it out, you'll either have to find your manual or see if you can find it here:
http://portforward.com/english/routers/port_forwarding/routerindex.htm
(or if the exact model isn't there, you can try a previous/later model)
