Yeah I think it's using the version 1.2 dll as it is without the source provided. It is the same version as that is up for public release, I don't think it has been modified as it's dated the same as the file I have been using to test out stuff (June 2003). The readme (or credits.txt) doesn't contain your name- which it should and also the disclaimer for the DLL file or some sort of disclaimer about the file and it's use.

Get onto Dante about it- he should be able to sort it out.
