the only way forward is to dismantle the idiotic democratic form of government and erect monarchies for every race and nation.

Also, while being sensitive, make it gradually possible for all peoples to return back to their ancestral homelands.

With kings in charge, there will be generational stability and the commoners/serfs/"the people!"/self-important dumbshits can stay the FUCK out of politics and focus more on raising families and on working their day jobs without pissing their worthless uneducated opinions into the realms of true power; power which will only belong to the king and NO ONE ELSE.

The idea of voting will also gradually recede from the memory of all men.
