Heck, I remember pounding my hours into N64 Command and Conquer. I remember the first time I ever heard of the game. It was 5 years ago when I went over to a neighbor's house and I watched an older kid play it for almost an hour. I fell in love with C&C at first sight. I got really hooked when I got Renegade. I play it everyday and try to be as active in the community as my life can allow. This series was and still is truly the real deal...
