

---

Subject: This other anti-cheat

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Sat, 18 Oct 2003 21:46:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

maj.boredomTry to focus people. This is not about egos any more and this is not a contest either. The common goal is still to stop cheating. The fools who criticize the Anti-Cheat Mod team's efforts have, for some reason, lost sight of that very goal. Because of the limitations of the Mod, any Mod, it is common knowledge that is nothing more than a quick fix, where as RenGuard is/will be a long-term solution. The creators of this Mod publicly support RenGuard because of this common goal and, unless there are hidden agendas involved, the support should be reciprocated. Anything else is counter-productive and will further divide what is left the rapidly dieing Renegade community.

A quick fix is worth about as much as the toliet paper I used to wipe my ass. This is what YOU don't understand. "Quick fixes" will not stop anything. This is not even used by anyone. Until RenGuard comes out, cheating will not be stopped.

Get your facts straight before you post anything. Sure, we all have a common goal, but certain people know fuck-all about doing game modifications or preventing cheats in said games. Help if you know what you're doing, otherwise STFU and let the knowledgable people take care of it for you.

---