
Subject: Black Cell Mods Think there God
Posted by vloktboky on Thu, 23 Oct 2003 02:06:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'd like to know why this has turned into a 4 page topic..

To wanaburnu, that night, we were hosting an event called Mod Map Night for my friend, Beanyhead. He requested a special rule, no Timed C4 on DM maps. Carnage Club was effected by this rule. Now why you got tbanned, I can't say for sure since I wasn't there. If you only did it once, it should only have been a warning kick. If you had came back more than once and repeated this, then yes, a tban was the right thing to do. Whatever the case was, it's expired by now.

As for the many flame wars that seemed to have grown in this thread, it's all rather pointless. We will continue to manage our servers the way we feel, and we will continue to keep them running with moderation support until the last person leaves our servers. For those who don't like us, well, that's your own opinion. We aren't effected by those that hate us, and we aren't effected by those that like us. We are here for one purpose, to run quality servers for this game so others can enjoy it. If that is so wrong, then why is everyone else doing it? We want no special name or power out of it, and we don't want control of some community the game has.

Continue to like us, continue to hate us, however you view us is up to you. But, we aren't going anywhere.
