KIRBY098Yet again you prove why I respect you so highly. Thank you for stark honesty.

Seems as if you only respect others if they do things that you can benefit from.

I find it disgusting that you go from someone I respected to someone who talks about how childish I am. Yes, originally, I was upset and I spoke to Dante about it.

Afterward, when I woke up, I changed my mind and decided to change it around a bit, use the situation to gather more visitors and "community" support for us. When the game is having problems and people go to the point of not even wanting to acknowledge its existence, some drastic measures have to be taken in order to ensure a fanbase who will actually play the game in question.

Gotta love "sunshine patriots and friends," though. You know what I mean.
