The matrix is a glide short story that should not be looked at too hard. The way it is written is floored and was only meant to be a one off short made to make you think. The second two are pretty much hashed together, the animatrix are not even worth talking about, although I did like made me smile.

This story like all others can be taken apart and put in to its basic plot, situation, narration, opener, closer...add in a antagonist and religious sub plot as needed ,all the bits that go in to the writing. Believe it or not there is even a script as was to what bits go where and an explanation for them.

but nothing more then 50 pages. The whole lot could go in to one short volume.
