I was wondering what you all would think of a site was created that could be called like Battle Reports or something. What this would be is a site that users could come on and post some good battle technique that their team did in a game or something.

For example: Today I was in a game in n00bsvr. I was on nod and we had already taken out there barracks and PP by attacking with 7 stealth tanks. We then setup a multi phase plan. We sent 2 people to beacon the AGT, 3 choppers for the WF, and then 3 stanks for the refinery. Once we heard the beacon being laid, the stanks and the choppers both rushed. So within literally the time it takes for a beacon to go off, we killed 3 biuldings.

Above is an example of what someone can post. it could help on strategies and ideas for teamplay. Would this be something people would be interested in coming back to daily, or not?
