Was playing GDI on walls flying the other day, when managed to sneak into base via tunnel and around airstrip to see many light tanks sitting there, because someone on NoD pre-purchased them and let them sit until taken.

Well needless to say their intentions were in the right place but so was I when took out there ref with their purchase. All I have to say really is.. is don't by vehicles unless going to be used instead of just sitting around for enemy to take and destroy your own base. Might be a good idea if done with a map that has ob/agt, less likely to be taken freely.
