They're suggestions, obviously.. variations from normal play. Of course hotwires dropping off at different structures will have a higher chance of success.

But you don't often see humm-vees coming in from the Airstrip side.. so the Nod team wouldn't expect it, and might all be hanging out in the field or at the back of the Hand thinking that's the way your inc. And one person could drop off at the airstrip and the other, the obelisk to have better rate of success.
