No being gay is wrong. In case you don't remember God destroyed the cities of Sodom and Gamora (I probably spelled them wrong).

First of all it's just plain wrong from the sexual perspective of it. It's just not the way it's meant to be. It's not right and it's not okay. People are taking the idea of acceptance way too far these days. It's okay to accept a gay person because, yes, they are people too. But that doesn't mean we should accept the way they live. It's none of my business how they live their life, they just better stay the hell away from me.
