Why does everyone bitch so much about lag? It's part of playing on the Internet so you'll have to live with it.

Yes, lag is a pain-in-the-arse, but what does it matter? It's obvious that they're complaining because they got "owned" and don't want to admit it.

I've put up with loads of crap from lag (being a 56K player). But I don't really care if I get killed so often or can't do so well in a game. If you get so upset over not winning or can't bare losing, then you have a problem.

I agree that it's annoying when people say "lag kill" or something similar after being killed. Even though I've been "lag killed" many times, but don't really care enough to say anything.
