There is hope for support just not by Westwood/EA...

You have to look beyond those money grabbing companies and look towards the community prime examples of support are all the mods available/under construction, all the new features arising via the scripts package, The Renegade Evolution and more...

The community has now got more support than it ever did under the control of EA and their corporate jackass's...

This is the third negative topic from you p0opies you just have to realise Renegade is still very much ALIVE!!!.
