FreakerVHCrimsonThe new folders in the n00bstories Image Gallery should make this obsolete. Now you can create your own categorizations of images and provide a link to a particular folder. You can also hide folders from public view.

Could it be that you introduced that feature because of Crapshots? (no offend, just a question)

And I still think, that it's hard to find something, even when it's in a folder from a SINGLE User with a few screens in it.

Nice feature for a graphic HOST, I agree, but nothing real to compete with CrapShots, I think.

And it's NOT obsolete in any way.

CrapShots is much better to show screens to public.

N00bstories is the better host.

Why don't accept this, Crimson?

Halo38

nope no glory it is slightly faded you can't click it, it has no link when you click, i refresh but still nothing could it be a problem with my profile (i'm restricted for this area for some reason? if no ill post in other and can you move it please (only one)

now it should work

wrong rights were set, only admins could upload

I believe this site does have something unique to offer (although it could do with a change of name )

* that crimson doesn't support it*

Cheers for the fix FreakerVH
