SuperFlyingEngiSo companies spontaneously started rabidly outsourcing when Bush became president even though the only thing he knows how to do concerning the economy is cut taxes?

Yeah, kinda proves that the current president has to kinda work with the previous president's mistakes/good ideas.

The market did not start falling in 1998. It was in 2000.

BigCharts graph of the NASDAQ composite indicates this. When was Bush inaugurated? Oh yeah, January 2001. And where was the NASDAQ? Oh yeah, it was at half of its 5000+ peak reached in March of 2000. So there's a huge-ass boulder tumbling downhill and suddenly Bush is placed in front of it... and you expect him to stop it.

Now, today, we're about 400 points below where we were when Bush took office.

And yet, he's ruining the economy.
