dead4ayear2I'm 12 but I'm not that stupid. About a year ago I was a n00b, but I learned the way of the internet and became a reg. (is there a name for the oppisite of a n00b?) I still have a little "nuberium" in me but it will go away soon. I think that was written by a reg (don't know oppisite of n00b so I use reg) that wanted attention. Spelling "and" "adn" three times kinda gives it away because even someone that types that shitty wouldn't spell it that way three times. I think he doesn't have a backspace or delete key to fix his god fosaken errors.

Back onto subject, I think that's too long at wouldn't be very funny. Best kept down to a paragraph and has alot of exclamation marks.

BTW, I don't think that half of those words you can even pronounce.

BTW, this has helped me develop a cure for the nuberium virus.

Hey, wake up! You're still one!
