Llama Man 451crimson you would have maybe made a good pint between clinton and bush but unfortunately, clinton wasnt the one who started to WARS one of them for no good reason which is sightly didfferent than a "scandal" that never really happened. also clintons cost 40 million where george bush's cost something like 356 milllion which is another slight difference in my book. youd think a conservative of all people would realize that. lets look at the base word of conservative CONSERVE lets look this up shall we?

To use carefully or sparingly, avoiding waste: kept the thermostat lower to conserve energy.

that definately does not match the whole lets blow away 356 million dollars thing.

by the way if you want to check that definiton go to <http://www.dictionary.com> it is letter b. on the first entry

Now lets look at the defnintion of coservative

Favoring traditional views and values; tending to oppose change.

Traditional or restrained in style: a conservative dark suit.

Moderate; cautious: a conservative estimate.
