StoneRookAircraftkillerStoneRook never made Helicopter Pads.

Those are the official Helicopter Pads I received from Westwood Studios for multiplayer games, and released to the public around Christmas-time with help from Bumpaneer for the damage and destruction aggregates.

There's another thing you got wrong.

No - your wrong Aircraftkiller - He never said i made them (that i can see) - i just helped him set up aggergates. (via questions asked on the forums, and tutorials)

And i believe he has given more credit for using other modder's work to build on more than others have here..

General Havoc is doing fine work - making more Renegade modifications - which in turn will keep the game going.

and isn't this a goal of the "official Renegade Mod Forums"?

Missed that part... He credited Bumpaneer for the Helipads, except those are the ones from Renegade Realm which came from WS.

Anyways, yes... I suppose his tutorials are good, but I'd like to see him release a tutorial instead of a video of a helicopter landing at a Helicopter Pad. We've already seen what it can do before... It's almost old hat now.

I haven't seen him do any Renegade modifications. Last time I checked, it was Dante making those scripts which allowed him to create tutorials on them.
