The Cocks Suck!

Lol, gotta love the GTA3 pedestrians. And GTA is a great game, not nearly as violent as people make it out to be. In both games I only remember hearing like one "fuck" and they said other curse words fairly sparingly compared to the Getaway (which probably dropped the F bomb more than "the"). Still, both GTA and the Getaway are fantastic games that no one has the right to censor (its a shame, but Sony actually censored one of the torture scenes and removed a nude scene from the game for the NA release). If you can't handle it, don't buy it.

I hate these pretentious conservative types that spout on about how bad game violence is (although I know a few liberals do too). Seriously, the argument that someone could see someone get shot in a game and then go shoot someone in real life is stupid. But if that's the case, it makes more sense to take away the damn gun than the game...
