do u people really need complete sentences to read things? didnt u people learn about context clues? using sentence fragments to find the missing parts.

my suggestions, i think u should.....

make the support beams slightly thicker, the beams the wrap around the sphere slightly thicker. also from comparing the game pics and your render pics, you should either...

make the sphere larger and raise it some or make the base of it smaller in diameter.

becuase in the pic above the angle of the support beams seam to appear steeper than yours.

BTW, what is the current poly count?
