Aircraftkiller Give me facts to support what you're saying... I've yet to see you defend any of your unfounded insults without being redundant. If you're going to dance around the fact that you don't belong in this forum, and that your only purpose here is to irritate others... Then you'll probably find yourself banned quickly. I'll put in a request to Crimson about it.

Don't go crying about it, either. I can't see anyone who would vouch to have you stay. You're not an asset to this community. You're just a troll who gets his jollies by irritating established members of this community. You won't last long... I'll make sure of it.

But yeah, go ahead and keep repeating yourself. It takes a while for the human mind to believe lies when they're repeated over and over. Maybe you've already crossed the barrier.

This game is a dying game, and your might, and future accomplishments on it, will only pass into history. What have you done for me lately? The company who developed it just tossed it, and they you were using the other day was being redundant. Your pitiful attempts to sound rational and intelligent go in the toilet, when you use the type of language you use on the different people in all
