Dudes, chill out. It doesn't really matter if he made the bullets or not. There are only 304732928137410987 other bullets in existence to be photographed and put into an existing image if he didn't draw them himself.

Just lay back and observe other's "artwork," instead of arguing over it. If someone isn't being truthful, then that's their fault, unless they take your own personal work, of course.
