So, I'm having a little situation here. I'd like to play Red Alert 1 again, but unfortunately, it only works on my older PC with WinMe, not with my new one with XP. (Yes I've tried the patches and all). However, the older PC has no speakers and, well, RA just isn't the same without sounds.

So the question is, can I somehow redirect or share the sounds through my LAN from the older PC to my new PC's 5.1 speaker system? So that I could play with the other PC and hear the sounds from the other? I have absolutely NO idea if this is possible, can anyone think of a way?
